I have always had my greatest proficiency and passion for visual arts: through early education as an illustrator, then professionally as a graphic designer, through to now in video production. In addition to a broad array of technical skills, both practical and on computer, I have also started, owned and operated several small businesses and worked within customer service/support jobs for many years. This has provided me an excellent foundation for dealing with clients, crew and customers plus solving problems, keeping people happy, consideration and co-operation. Above it all, I have a passion for creativity and project success, and truly enjoy the crafts of video production and filmmaking.
